SHARRER MILL IS DAMAGED BY BLAZE SUNDAY; $30,000 LOSS

Firemen from four companies were called early Sunday morning when fire destroyed part of the D. H. Sharrer and Son mill at New Chester.

A preliminary estimate of $30,000 loss was made. Examination of the machinery in the section to which the fire was confined will determine the extent of the loss, the owner said.

Examination later Sunday by an expert mechanic from the company supplying the mixers showed that fire had caused the mixers to warp, thus necessitating their replacement. The hammer mill portion of the section was still under the debris of the rest of the equipment and building this morning and it could not be determined whether it had been destroyed.

BUILT RECENTLY

The section destroyed had been built about five years ago. Another section nearby constructed at a cost of $25,000 within the last few months suffered some heat damage from the fire before it, but the amount was not determined.

Sharrer said it may take "several weeks" to determine the total loss. In some instances machinery will have to be removed and cleaned before it can be learned whether it will again be usable. Insurance adjusters were expected today to study the damage.

The mill closed at noon Saturday. Men around the mill noticed nothing amiss during the afternoon and night. By 12:30 o'clock Sunday morning flames were leaping from a section of the mill.

SECOND CALL OF NIGHT

New Oxford fire responded first and called for assistance from Gettysburg, East Berlin and Hampton. Firemen were able to confine the blaze to the one section. Absence of wind helped in the battle.

For the East Berlin firemen it was the second blaze of the night.

They were returning from a fire in a summerhouse at the farm of Mike B. Burgard, East Berlin R. D., when the siren at their engine house was sounded by the quick-call system from Gettysburg. Radio communications quickly instructed them of the location of the blaze and they were en route to New Chester.

East Berlin firemen were reported as saying they believe the fire in the summerhouse at the Burgard farm might have been set by pranksters.

A number of the Gettysburg firemen were attending the Elks Halloween party when the siren sounded here and doffed costumes and donned firemen's garb in record time.

REFORMATION SERVICE HERE SUNDAY NIGHT

Declaring that the Protestant principles established in the 16th century remain valid today, the Rev. Dr. J. Charles McKirachan, Harrisburg, in the annual Adams County Reformation service at the seminary Sunday evening declared the Roman Catholics and the Protestants "need each other to combat the evils of this world."

Dr. McKirachan, who is pastor of the Pine Street Presbyterian Church in Harrisburg, is also chaplain of the grand lodge of the Masonic order in Pennsylvania.

The Church of the Abiding Presence was well-filled for the service.

Opening his sermon by noting the theological grounds on which Protestants and Catholics are together, the speaker said: "It is gratifying that although separated from the Roman Catholic Church, we are common inheritors of God's revelation in Jesus Christ and have a common responsibility to make Him known and revered."

OLD BARRIERS DENTED

He spoke also of "signs of a new series of developments in the Roman Church. They are watching with real care the ecumenical movement and they are renewing attention to translations of the Bible. There are good signs that the old barriers of bitter hostility Catholic and Protestant Churches is being dented, if not pierced." He spoke also of the "opportunities and possibilities for a new openness and willingness to discuss difference although theological union may be hopelessly remote."

Dr. McKirachan described the Reformation as that time in the 16th century when the authority of the Pope was "successfully challenged and four basic Protestant principles were established." He listed those principles this way: A sinner has immediate

22 Killed In Airliner's Crash At Toledo Takeoff Saturday Night In Fog

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Survivors of a flaming airliner crash that killed 22 persons Saturday night told of sputtering engines and a wobbly takeoff.

Accounts of the crash and the flame-scarred wreckage of the chartered C46 aircraft were being examined today by federal, state and local investigators, seeking the cause of the disaster.

The twin-engine plane, attempting to take off in a heavy fog, carried 48 persons. Most were members of the California Polytechnic College football team returning to the school.

PILOT KILLED

"We barely got off when the engines started sputtering. Then the left engine gave out—thump!" said James Fahey, 24, a halfback from Gilroy, Calif. He suffered minor injuries.

The plane bounced alongside the runway, broke in half and the front section burst into flames. The dead were riding up front.

Killed were the pilot, co-pilot, and 16 members of the foot team. Also dead were the team manager, a San Luis Obispo insurance man and team booster and the co-pilot's mother and sister-in-law. The women were traveling to Oakland, Calif., to meet the co-pilot's wife of only a few days.

FIRST OF KIND

It was the first time an entire athletic team was involved in a fatal plane accident in the United States.

At San Luis Obispo, where California Poly is located, residents were stunned. The student body of 470 scheduled a memorial service today.

Kenzie was lowered into the well with a length of rubber tubing wrapped around his waist. The well was only about 20 inches in diameter, too narrow for a man to climb down.

Twice Walter slipped from his brother's grip and fell back into the well. Finally, both boys were pulled out, Kenzie holding tightly to his brother.

Oxygen was administered to the younger boy. Then he was rushed to a hospital at nearby Mount Pleasant.

"Just as we left the ground, the tail seemed to drop and the plane fell off to the left," he added.

At the Toledo control tower, official said the decision to take off usually is left to the discretion of the pilot.

Mechanics who serviced the plane said there was no indication of difficulties.

Church and their guests on Saturday night. Those on the hayride, in two wagons, were chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Miller and Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Myers. During the ride, the group stopped at the Ralph C. Unger farm cottage for a Hallowe'en party. The cottage was appropriately decorated for the occasion. Games were in charge of Thomas Stavely and Terry Arbogast. Refreshments were served by the chaperons. REFORMATION direct access to God because of His grace; the Scriptures are the only ground of authority in the church and the Old and New Testaments the only infallible rule; each believer is his own priest, and finally the freedom of individual conscience before God.

All political freedom, he said, grows out of religious freedom and he asserted that a part of the Reformation principle is that the Church of Christ is always being reformed by the Word of God; it has been, is and always will have to be reforming."

STATISTICAL BALANCE

Dr. McKirachan quoted figures to show that Protestants and Catholics "seem to have achieved a statistical balance" population-wise in the U. S. over the last quarter century with each making numerical gains but the relative size of the two bodies changing little. Noting that the Catholics "have more to fear from the Protestants than we from them because we hold a numerical superiority," he said Catholics could not gain political superiority or control "unless they have the help of Protestants."

"Undeviating allegiance to what we conceive to be the truth is of greatest importance," he said and added: "We must battle for truth, but together."

"It is not intolerant for the Protestant to say that the Roman Catholic Church departs from the scripture in its requirements of its members," he said and cited the recent dogma of the Assumption of the Virgin Mary as an example of what he meant. "And it is not intolerant to say that the Protestant Church insists upon the separation of church and state."

LITTLESTOWN CHOIR SINGS

Speaking again of Protestant-Catholic relations, he said: "We must know each other better. We have come to appreciate the fidelity of gentle, loving Roman Catholics to their Saviour, Jesus Christ. There are cleavages between us that are yet removable. Let us be ecumenical in truth and fact and let us remember these words of Jesus: 'By this shall all men know that ye are disciples, that ye have loved one another.'

The invocation was given by the Rev. Alfred K. Gotwalt, Orrtanna EUB pastor. The scripture reading was by the Rev. C. Reynolds Simmons, Gettysburg Church of the Brethren pastor, and the benediction was pronounced by the Rev. George Shultz Jr., pastor of St. Luke's United Church of Christ. The speaker was introduced by the Rev. Robert MacAskill, local Presbyterian pastor.

There were two anthems by the senior choir of the Redeemer's United Church of Christ, Littlestown, directed by Samuel H. Higginbotham. They sang "Strong in the Faith," and "My God and I." Mrs. George A. Stoner of Redeemer's Church at Littlestown was the organist.

The offering went to the Adams County Council of Churches, official sponsors of the service. Ushears were from Trinity United Church of Christ here.

ACCOMPLISHMENT REQUIRES ISOLATION

It is only when we get alone that we really begin to appraise ourselves properly. And it is only as we come to see ourselves in the actual light of what we are that we are able to go ahead intelligently.

Accomplishment requires isolation.

When a man or woman looms suddenly in the sight of public attention, the first thing that comes to one's mind is that some accident has occurred—that the man or woman has "luckily" arrived at his, or her, fame.

But if you go back, if you seek to learn, you will find that what you see is but the flowering of sacrifice, study, long years of plodding—and isolation.

Isolation is the bone and sinew growing time of the soul.

The thinker observes in the crowd, but he does very little creative work there. He must retire to his library, or to some silent place, where he may gather up his seesings and build his findings into ideas and practical suggestions.

Isolation takes courage. You have to give up much that you may grow much.

When problems vex, a man wants to go alone where he may think them all out in their true proportion.

Isolation has its price. It comes high. You have to give up much while in it—but you are sure to come out of it better equipped and with a finer balance of power.

Nearly all of us at times become greatly isolated in heart. In loneliness of spirit we often grope. But there has never been a day that has not followed its night of darkness. We must all come up out of our night INTO our day!

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "On Getting Along With People."

AUTUMN

The trees are spending their treasure now,
Treasure of silver and bronze and gold,

Riches are falling from branch and bough
More than the lap of the earth can hold.

Day by day through the busy year
The trees have toiled in the burning sun,

But now the end of their time is near,
The frost has come and their work is done.

Here is a riot of luxury,
Lavish and lovely and bright and gay,

A spendthrift now is the humblest tree
Flinging the gold of its purse away.

Splendor sits on the rising hills,
Beauty smiles on the field afar,

A flood of treasure the frost spills Richer than coins of a monarch are.

Fluttering leaves of bronze and gold
Gleam in the sun of the shortening day,

And the trees, like men who are gray and old,
Scatter the treasures of earth away.

"This you must do," they seem to say,
"This is our way and the way of men,

Gather your treasures from day to day,
But you must scatter them all again."

MORE TO VOTE BY MACHINES

HARRISBURG (AP) Thirty-four of the state's 7 counties will employ voting machines in the presidential election Nov. 8.

Twenty counties, among the most populous, will use machines exclusively and 22 will use both machines and paper ballots.

The remaining 33 counties, mostly rural, will use paper ballots only.

The number of machines, which now cost about $2,000 apiece, has increased gradually in the last 12 years.

Nixon, the GOP presidential candidate, lists his chances of winning this key state's 32 electoral votes as 50-50.

Bloom disagrees emphatically. But Nixon is hardly expected to mind because Bloom's size-up is more optimistic than the one by the vice president.

"We are going to win Pennsylvania and I disagree that the situation is 50-50 as of now," the state chairman said Sunday night when asked to comment on Nixon's appraisal.

The Rev. Dr. John E. Metz, who was assigned by the Most Rev. George L. Msgr. McGee presented Father Metz with the ritual book, thus authorizing him to administer the sacraments and take care of the spiritual needs of his parishioners, and with the keys to the church, placing him in authority of the

LITITZ HORSE COPS TROPHY

WASHINGTON (AP)—Windsor Castle, with a new rider and new strategy, won the United States Jumper Championship Sunday night at the Washington International Horse Show.

The gelding, owned by Mr. and Mrs. W. Robert Ballard, had been off form lately. For the final night of the show, trainer Joe Green of Lititz, Pa., decided to put a new rider — 20-year-old Kathy Kusner of Falls Church, Va. — in the saddle.

SET OWN PACE

And he told her to let the big horse set his own pace. For months, Green had ordered the jumper hand-ridden.

Windsor Castle then turned in a dazzling performance, to win the $1,000 championship. Green was awarded $250 for his handling.

"This horse is just like most geniuses," Green said. "He's a little peculiar, but he still is capable of doing what he's supposed to do for the big ones."

Foyt Leads Big Car Racers After Win

SACRAMENTO (AP)—In a dirt track big car race slowed down by two trackups, A. J. Foyt of Houston, Tex., moved into the lead in the battle for the United States Auto Club 100-mile racing championships Sunday.

Foyt beat such standouts as Rodger Ward of Indianapolis, Ind., and Tony Bettenhausen of Tinley Park, Ill., in a race at the California State Fairgrounds.

The win—his third 100-mile victory of the season—gave Foyt 1,480 points in the standings. Ward, 1959, Indianapolis 500 winner and last year's USAC national driving champion, fell back to second place with 1,360 points. He was forced out with engine trouble in third lap. Bettenhausen was fifth.

In the first accident, a three-car collision on the second lap, Jack Rounds of Huntington Park, Calif., suffered minor injuries. In the second, Lee Drollinger, Champaign, Ill., was shaken up when his racer hit the railing.

Doleschal's Field Goal Gives Lafayette 10-7 Decision Over Bullets

A field goal by junior halfback Walt Doleschal with 3:52 minutes left in the game gave the Lafayette Leopards a 10-7 win over Gettysburg College Saturday afternoon in Easton before 9,000 fans.

Lafayette gained possession of the ball after Don Carpenter was forced to punt from his own 22 late in the last period. On three plays Bartos and Franco moved the pigskin from the 43 to the Bullet 29. Franco picked up five to the 24. Sure-footed Doleschal, standing on the 30-yard line, split the uprights for the game winning three-pointer.

Doleschal has attempted three field goals and has made good on all three this season. The trio of placements have also accounted for a 3-0 win over Delaware and a 9-7 win over Temple. Local fans will remember that it was Earl Little's field goal with 11 seconds remaining in the game that defeated Lafayette here last season, 16-13.

LITTLE CONNECTS

Coach Gene Haas' squad broke the ice early in the game and managed to hold its lead for three quarters. After the Leopards tried three unsuccessful plays following the opening kickoff, the Bullets took over on their own 36. Eddie Lucas, Gettysburg work horse, torted the ball nine yards to the 45. Junior quarterback Earl Little entered the ball game for the first time since the second quarter of the Lehigh game three weeks ago. The young passer, on his first play, fired to Harry Richter, good for 46 yards, and placed the ball on the Lafayette nine-yard line.

Lucas, on two plays off left tackle and left end, picked up four yards on each carry. On the third play, fullback Rich Bainbridge bolted over from the one for the score. Little re-entered the game and booted the placement for a 7-0 lead.

Gettysburg seemed to fold after the score. For the next three periods the Bullets were unable to move the ball. Ball carriers were unable to get the necessary blocking. The defense held on for a few vital plays, but it wasn't long before Lafayette was able to crack through. Gettysburg received some help on Lafayette fumbles and two penalties.

In the third quarter the Leopards drove from their own 47 to the Gettysburg two yard line. Doleschal attempted a field goal, which was good, but a back-field-in-motion penalty moved the ball back to the seven. Mike Dill then tried to run with the ball and was thrown for a six-yard loss and the Bullets took over.

Throughout the second half Gettysburg was unable to move the ball past its own 37-yard line. The Bullets were in charge on only 18 plays as compared to Lafayette's 39 chances.

LEOPARDS TIE SCORE

The Leopards finally knotted the count with 9:15 minutes remaining in the game. Ray Moyer returned Carpenter's punt 22 yards to the Bullets' 47. Charlie Bartos, Dom Visconti and John Franco carried to the Gettysburg seven on nine plays through the line. Bartos picked up four more to the three. On the second play Bartos was hit for no gain. Second string quarterback Dom Visconti then plunged over for the score. Doleschal added the placement.

Charlie Bartos was the game's top performer, carrying the ball 28 times for 138 yards. Eddie Lucas, 5'8", 165-pounds, gained 83 for the Bullets on 17 carries. Lucas and Frank Temme were the standouts for Gettysburg.

The Orange and Blue (2-4) will attempt to get back into the win column when they tangle with Hofstra next Saturday night on the Sheppard-Meyers Field in Hanover. Game time is 9:05 p.m.

BULLETS TOP SUSQUEHANNA BOOTERS 7-3

Four goals in the third period gave the Gettysburg College soccer team its second straight win of the season as it rolled to a 7-3 win over Susquehanna here Saturday afternoon.

Ray Truex, George Seitter and Kerry Johnson each accounted for two goals while Dick Gardner tallied one. The Bullets took a 1-lead after the first frame on Truex's first shot assisted by Gardner. Both teams tallied in the second quarter and Gettysburg held a 2-1 lead at intermission.

In the third stanza the Bullets broke loose. Gardner rammed one through unassisted followed by Johnson's shot with King Gore in the assist. Truex's second goal and Seitter's tally. Seitter rammed through his second goal in the fourth frame.

Bill McKee tallied two of Susquehanna's goals with Phil Yohe registering the third on a penalty kick.

Gettysburg (2-4) will travel to Annapolis on Wednesday to tangle with a tough Navy outfit.

Penn Takes Meet; Bullets Third

The University of Pennsylvania copped the first three places to win easily in a triangular cross country meet at Easton Saturday afternoon with Lafayette coming in second and Gettysburg finishing third.

Penn rolled up 19 points with the Leopards registering 40 and the Bullets 69. Dick Martin, Gettysburg's ace runner, was the only Orange and Blue harrier to finish in the first 10. He toured the 4.5 mile course in 23:26 minutes. Don Tracey, Penn, took first place, crossing the line in 21:48.

The Bullet runners who counted in the scoring included Bob Andrews, 13th; Pete Murray, 14th; Steve Munzinger, 16th, and Art Cummins, 18th.

Few Americans Know Of Original Hall Of Fame At New York U. Where Nation's Great Are Enshrined In Marble, Bronze

Editor's Note—Most everybody knows baseball's Hall of Fame is in Cooperstown, N. Y., but few have heard about another hall in New York City where among 86 busts are George Washington, Edgar Allan Poe and George Westinghouse, where the inclusion of Pocahontas has drawn yes votes and where above a plaque inscribed "Wilbur Wright" there is no bust at all.

By JULES LOH

NEW YORK (AP)—An 8-year-old boy addressed a letter to the "Hall of Fame, New York," recently and asked would somebody please send him a picture of Babe Ruth.

Mrs. Freda Hildal, the assistant director of this unique temple of Americana, suggested why the boy direct his request to Cooperstown, N. Y., where there is a Valhalla of baseball heroes.

It irritates the patient Mrs. Hildal that with much of the populace the baseball Hall of Fame enjoys more fame than "the original Hall of Fame—which in my book is the only one."

SHRINE OF IMMORTALS

She refers to the Hall of Fame for Great Americans—a quarter mile colonnade on the New York University campus where the nation's immortals are enshrined in marble and bronze.

Its subjects constitute a catalog of American history on all fronts; from John Paul Jones to George Westinghouse, Edgar Allan Poe to Eli Whitney, Patrick Henry to Robert E. Lee.

The hall belongs to all Americans, and all can have a hand in the selection of subjects. So far 88 have been chosen and new names are added every five years.

CHOSSEN FROM 242

This year's selections announced Thursday night are Henry Thoreau, essayist, philosopher and poet; Edward MacDowell, composer and educator, and inventor

Thomas A. Edison. The distinguished trio was chosen from a list of 242 candidates. NYU is trustee for the shrine which was founded in 1900 by a former chancellor, Dr. Henry M. MacCracken.

It was MacCracken's idea to establish something unknown in this country and unlike anything abroad, and he had a quarter million dollar donation from philanthropist Helen Gould to see it through.

Hall of Fame candidates are grouped in 16 categories including the catch-all: "Other distinguished men and women." So far nobody has been chosen from this last group, but it provided a spot for Pocahontas to poll a respectable number of votes in four elections.

MAY PROPOSE CANDIDATE

Anyone with a four-cent stamp may propose a candidate for the hall. But a college of electors decides, by vote, which images shall occupy the 150 spaces between the columns of the Grecian walkway.

Do any of these names ring a bell: John Lothrop Motley, Alice Freeman Palmer, Maria Mitchell, Rufus Choate, Matthew Fontaine Maury? (They were respectively, a historian, educator, astronomer, orator and oceanographer).

They're all in the Hall of Fame, along with the more familiar George Washington, Abraham Lincoln, Henry Clay, Walt Whitman, Walter Reed, Alexander Graham Bell and the rest.

The roll of 147 electors reads like who's who and could serve as a contemporary Hall of Fame. In fact, four former electors—Grover Cleveland, Theodore Roosevelt, Woodrow Wilson and Alice Freeman Palmer—have been elected to the hall.

Electors are appointed by the administration and college heads of NYU.

TEST OF FAME

What test of fame do the electors apply? Each may have his own, but Hall of Fame director Dr. Ralph W. Sockman classes a definition by Henry Van Dyke as the best he has heard:

"Fame is a durable good renown, earned by service, approved by the wise and applauded by the common man."

The hall's constitution at least guarantees the renown of the selections is "durable." Nominees not only must be American citizens, they also must be dead at least 25 years.

The only exception ever made to this rule explains the missing bust over Wilbur Wright's plaque in the colonnade. Busts (conforming to uniform Hall of Fame standards) are donated by clubs, societies and the like interested in the person honored.

WON'T CONTRIBUTE BUST

Every aeronautical group approached to contribute a bust of Wilbur declined on the grounds it would be like honoring Alphonse without Gaston, Abercrombie without Fitch. The Wright brothers' contribution, they argued, was strictly a two-man accomplishment.

Administrators of the hall agreed, waived the 25-year rule, and allowed brother Orville's name to be put on the 1960 list.

There was no suggestion the electors choose him automatically, however, and Orville Wright didn't make it this year.

ALARMS DIDN'T WORK

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—The bell rang for first-period classes at the University of Kentucky, but the 33 students who live at the Delta Tau Delta fraternity house didn't show up.

During the night, the power had failed and all the fraternity's electric alarm clocks, set for 7 a.m., went off at 8:35.

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—David E. Smiley, 81, publisher of the Tampa Times for 25 years until it was sold two years ago, died Wednesday.

JOHN FITZGERALD KENNEDY

Born in Brookline, Massachusetts, May 29, 1917. He attended private preparatory schools and was graduated from Harvard in 1940. Served as a commanding officer of a Navy PT boat during World War II. While convalescing from injuries received in battle, he wrote "Profiles in Courage," which won the 1957 Pulitzer Prize for Biography.

He was elected a member of the United States House of Representatives from Massachusetts in 1946 and a member of the United States Senate in 1952. At the Democratic National Convention in 1956 he missed, in a close race, being nominated as the choice for Vice President.

With the advantage of national publicity in newspapers, magazines, radio and television, resulting from the turbulent session in the selection of a nominee for Vice President, he campaigned tirelessly in Massachusetts for re-election to the Senate in 1958. Winning by a staggering margin of votes, he immediately aimed for Presidential recognition for 1960. Working on all levels, he knitted together everyone from his own immediate family to political amateurs, big city bosses, Harvard classmates, colleagues in the House of Representatives and governors of many states. He traveled in every state making speeches, won every primary election he entered and established overpowering strength in the states which had no primaries. At the 33rd Democratic National Convention, he scored a first ballot victory, making him the Presidential nominee.

Politically, he is a liberal, an advocate of closer Congressional control over government spending, a defender of civil-rights legislation in the Deep South, a crusader for religious tolerance. While he has never fathered any major legislation in his 14 years in the House and Senate, he has, at 43, come far in national politics.

If he wins the election, he will be the youngest American elected President and the first Roman Catholic Chief Executive of the United States.

LYNDON BAINES JOHNSON

Born near Stonewall, Texas, August 27, 1908. He was graduated from Southwest Texas Teachers College in 1930 and Georgetown Law School in 1935. First a teacher (Houston, Texas, public schools), then a lawyer, he turned to politics in 1936 serving as a Texas congressman in the United States House of Representatives from 1937 to 1949.

Elected United States senator in 1948, he won a second term in 1954. Chosen assistant floor leader in 1951 and majority leader in 1955, he has won recognition as one of the ablest majority leaders ever to serve in the Senate. His greatest legislative triumph, in 1957, was the passage of the first civil rights bill in more than 80 years.

As the leader of a Democratic Congress, he has shown true statesmanship by "going along" with President Eisenhower's program while being openly attacked by Democratic party liberals. Often called "the second most powerful man in the country," and recognized as one of the most realistic politicians in contemporary history, he was nominated, by acclamation, the Democratic candidate for Vice President at the 33rd Democratic National Convention.

MRS. JOHN F. KENNEDY

Socialite-heiress Jacqueline Lee Bouvier was born July 28, 1929. She was educated in private schools, had two years at Vassar, a year of study in France and was graduated from George Washington University. She was named "the most beautiful debutante of the year" in 1948 when she made her debut in Newport and New York society.

While working as a member of an inquiring photographer team for a Washington, D. C. newspaper in 1953, she met Senator Kennedy. In the same year, on September 12, at an affair that was one of the highlights of the social season along the Eastern seaboard, she became his wife. They have one child, a daughter.

Should Senator Kennedy be elected President, she would be the youngest of the First Ladies since Frances Folsom Cleveland, who was married in the White House to President Grover Cleveland in 1886. Charming, well poised, a sparkling conversationalist and accustomed to public functions, Mrs. Kennedy would find no problems in the responsibilities as hostess of the White House.

One Vice President Elected President Who Didn't First Serve Out Term Of President

Only one vice president has ever been elected to the highest office in the land without first serving out the term of a president who died in office. That was Martin Van Buren, elected in 1836.

Only two presidents have come directly from Congress, reports the encyclopedia. They were James A. Garfield and Warren G. Harding, both senators from Ohio.

The most popular profession for presidents seems to be lawyer, 23 among 34 presidents.

The only woman to ever venture into a presidential election was Victoria Claflin Woodhull, nominated by the Equal Rights party in 1872.

The voting in seven big states will have a major impact on the outcome of the 1960 presidential election. Here are the states and their presidential voting records from 1900 to 1960.

New York—45 electoral votes; voted for twice as many Republicans as Democratic ones.

California—32 electoral votes; voted for eight Republicans and six Democrats, with one election going to the Bull Moose party of Teddy Roosevelt.

Pennsylvania—32 electoral votes; voted for one Republican and once for the Bull Moose party.

Illinois—27 electoral votes; voted for nine Republicans and six Democrats.

Ohio—25 electoral votes; voted for nine Republicans and six Democrats.

Texas—24 electoral votes; voted for four times as many Democrats as Republicans.

Michigan—20 electoral votes; voted for 11 GOP candidates, three Democrats and once for the Bull Moose candidate.

When the people go to the polls on Election Day, they don't choose a president but members of the Electoral College. These electors, equal in number to the members of Congress, actually elect the president when they meet in December. The electors are pledged by custom to vote for their party's candidate. But the pledge was broken in 1948 by a Tennessee elector and in 1966 by an Alabama elector.

A Bit Of History About Early Settlers

By B. F. M. MacPHERSON

THE STORY OF FORT GRANVILLE

Before resuming the historical and genealogical study of the "Upper" Low Dutch Burial Ground a brief sketch of old Fort Granville, as requested by a reader of this column, will be given — as follows:

Fort Granville was erected on a site about one mile west of the present borough of Lewistown, immediately on the north side of the Juniata River and westward from where Kishacoquillas Creek empties into the river—about the distance of one mile. It was erected shortly after the defeat of General Edward Braddock and his army in 1755. There was a the area enclosed by the stockade but this landmark was destroyed when the canal was dug and at the present time no vestige remains to mark the exact site.

SELL LAND TO STATE

The land on which Fort Granville was built was owned by James Turner and was afterwards sold by his descendants to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania for the use of the Pennsylvania Canal. It is interesting to note that the remains of the canal are now a historical landmark—history in layers—so to speak.

During the "old French Wars" a chain of forts was built to protect the wide frontiers of the Province of Pennsylvania and Fort Granville was one of those erected on the west side of the Susquehanna River. It was located about 15 miles northeast of Fort Shirley and approximately the same distance from Fort Patten. The amount of protection afforded by these defenses is debatable — their presence did little to stop the raids of the French and their Indian allies but, as a general rule, they served well as a place of refuge for the settlers who live in their vicinity.

COMMANDER NARROW PASS

According to a record on file in the English Archives (the Public Record Office) the site for Fort Granville "... was selected because it commands a narrow pass where the Juniata River falls through the mountains, which is so circumstantial that a few men can maintain it against a great enemy, as the rocks are very high on each side and less than a gun shot from below." This declivity extended for six miles eastward and westward, so that the enemy could be easily seen in their approaches from "every direction."

Upon the site thus selected Fort Granville, a stockaded work, was erected and garrisoned by a company of enlisted men, under the command of regularly commissioned officers. As shown by a letter, written by Elisha Salter, dated Carlisle, April 4, 1756, work on the fort was commenced soon after the order to do so was given to Captain Croghan. The work was completed and the stockade garrisoned during the winter of 1756.

MAN OF FORCE

As early as the "old French War" of 1755 a few pioneers from the "Scotch-Irish" settlements on the Conococheague (now in Franklin County) had passed up the old Raystown Road, and found their way down the Raystown and Aughwick branches to the fertile and lovely valley of the Juniata. Arthur Buchanan, his two sons and three other families, all Scotch, came to where Lewisburg now stands and took up lands in 1775. The elder Buchanan was a man of great force and energy and was considered a frontiersman of the best type. He (Buchanan) built his cabin near the mouth of the creek about where the canal bridge of a later day was to be erected. After the little group of pioneers had "made their locations" and built their cabins, Arthur Buchanan visited the Indians and told them that he wished to purchase the lands upon which his people had located. They (the Indians) were at first reluctant to sell, but cap-

East Berlin

MRS. JACK MILLER

EAST BERLIN—At the ULCW convention held Thursday in Trinity Lutheran Church, Chambersburg, Dr. Amy Augustus, head of the Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology at Vellore Hospital in India, spoke to the delegates during the morning session.

After lunch committee meetings were held in the afternoon. The seven local ULCW members who attended, including the two designated delegates, were Mrs Luella Lerew and Mrs. Florence Gentler, delegates; Miss Beulah Wentz, Mrs. Bertha Brandt, Mrs. Isabel Lau, Mrs. Ralph Myers and Mrs. Ray Fissel.

Sunday, November 6, at the 10:15 a.m. worship the ULCW thank offering service will be held. The guest speaker will be Mrs. Roy L. Yund, of York, a former missionary to Liberia.

Miss Nettie Myers, Reading Twp., sold a property in Reading Twp. for $1,500 to Mr. and Mrs. Byrdie M. Johnson, Pittsburgh.

The teen-age dance held at the VFW Club Friday evening was well attended.

Mr. and Mrs. Theron Rinehart and family, Moult Apts., have moved into their newly constructed home located on the "Old York Rd."

At a recent Cub Scout Haloween party where approximately 75 persons attended, prizes were awarded to the following: Prettiest, Donnie Moult; ugliest, Jim Menges; most original, Paul Grim; funniest, Frank Chronister, and last guessed, Mrs. Vernon Hoke. Games and refreshments rounded out the evening.

Mrs. Margaret Lerew, who was injured two weeks ago in a truck mishap, is expected to be discharged from the hospital today.

FLEE FOR LIVES

Those who had settled along the Juniata and its tributaries fled for their lives across the mountain and took refuge at Carlisle and Shippensburg. The people of York County (of which Adams County was then a part) were very much alarmed and complained that, since the capture of Fort Granville, their prospects for "safety and protection" had vanished. A year before the capture of Fort Granville there were in York County 3,000 men "fit to bear arms" but after that event, according to the authorities, there were less than a third of that number. Small wonder that people fled by the hundreds for, in addition to raids by the French and Indians, they were faced with the specter of hunger—since the abundant crops of that year were, in the majority of cases, allowed to rot in the ground—they could not be harvested.

The Indian massacres during the summer of 1756, which reached a climax with the capture of Fort Granville, struck terror into the hearts of the people living in the locality and in all the region west of the Susquehanna. Settlers began, with good reason, to abandon the settlements they had toiled and fought for along the Blue Mountains,

WEEKEND TV SPORTS NEW GOOD SHOWS

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Television-wise — even commercial-wise — things looked up over the week-end.

First, in terms of importance, there was Sunday night's "Hour With Danny Kaye," on CBS, and the talented clown gave us samples from his big bag of tricks for his television debut. It was an auspicious one.

Except for his unique and wonderful way with accents and his nimble tongue, there wasn't anything particularly unusual in the ingredients of the show: He kidded psychiatrists, television, TV commercials, and Edward R. Murrow twice. He gamboled through some dance numbers, pulled up a chair and chatted with the audience, and conducted a sing-along number. But his style and personality were great and it was a most entertaining hour.

2-HOUR SHOW GOOD

CBS had an interesting project going Friday and Saturday nights: a two-part production of "The Scarlet Pimpernel" in installments of one hour each.

Memories of the late Leslie

Howard as the dashing hero may have been stirring among the oldsters in the audience, but it was good, action-filled costume drama, with very evil villains, very noble heroes and a very beautiful heroine. Michael Rennie made a most satisfactory Sir Percy and Zachary Scott, a magnificently sinister Chauvelin.

The idea of breaking the show into two parts for showing on two successive nights was a good one and was handled well.

ANOTHER FAMILY CLASSIC

Shirley Temple's show Sunday night on NBC was another family classic, an adaptation of Mark Twain's "The Prince and the Pauper." It was a handsome production, in color, but the tale seemed to have lost something in its adaptation — or maybe it was something that has been lost since childhood when most of us read the story.

Then, after that, there was NBC's Halloween special called of a player, Sam Huff.

"Ghosts, Goblins and Kids," which turned out to be a slick, amusing and thoroughly professional variety show performed entirely by children. Just about everything in the way of entertainment that grownups can do, these youngsters—from toddlers to teens—demonstrated that they could do just as well if not better. They sang, danced, made jokes and—get this—did the commercials for an automobile.

COMMERCIALS GOOD

It should be noted that the commercials on both the Danny Kaye show and the Halloween program — both sponsored by the same automobile manufacturer — were exceptionally good, with wit, taste and originality.

Finally, CBS' "Twentieth Century" had the bright idea of showing what it is like to be a middle line backer on a professional football team by fastening a microphone on the shoulderpad of a player, Sam Huff.

Let's Look At The Record

MORE TEACHERS NEEDED
Shortages Still Due To Low Salaries
Colleges Confronted By High Turnovers

By JIM DAN HILL, Ph.D.
President, Wisconsin State College, Superior
THE ACUTE SHORTAGE of teachers is easing, according to recent estimates of the National Education Association and figures compiled by the U. S. Office of Education. But the situation is still far from good.

Dr. Ray C. Maul, chief of the Association's research division, finds there is a public school teacher available for each classroom. But many are not fully qualified.

There is still a shortage of 10,000 based upon the obvious need that every teacher be fully qualified for his subject and duties, classrooms not be overcrowded and each school system properly staffed with psychologists, reading specialists, and especially trained teachers for the handicapped children, Dr. Maul says.

Moreover, the "easing of the situation" assumes that all of the qualified teachers who came out of the colleges and universities with bright, fresh credentials last June and August were willing to accept jobs at the salaries available.

But the ages old law of supply and demand appears to be fully operative. Where the demand does not talk loudly enough in dollars and cents, the supply appears to be dragging its feet.

THE COMBINED college graduating classes of 1960 turned out 129,295 new and fully qualified teachers to take the places of the 110,000 American, public school teachers who died, retired or who left teaching for jobs in other fields.

This would appear to give a net gain of at least 19,000 teachers.
But only 95,000 of the new teachers were willing to accept "the call."
Because of lower comparable pay within the profession for which they had studied, they accepted the better paying jobs in business or industry.

Thus the new graduating classes of 1960 actually failed to replace fully those who had retired, died, or left the profession for other reasons.

TEACHING SALARIES are, however, on the up trend throughout the United States; and at all levels, from the kindergartens through the graduate and professional colleges. Hence, an appreciable number of former teachers who have shopped about for better jobs in other fields are returning to the classrooms.

Another source is from older college graduates in other fields who are willing to teach and to that end are taking sufficient methods and pedagogy courses to qualify for a temporary, if not life certificate.

Many are widows. But a surprising number are middle-aged

BIG BATTLE
IN NEW YORK
THIS WEEK

By ROBERT T. GRAY

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Top Republicans and Democrats will wage a knock-down, drag-out fight in New York this week in the face of growing evidence that the state's prized 45 electoral votes may be won by Sen. John F. Kennedy.

The forces of Republican Richard M. Nixon are privately apprehensive as they go all out in what now is widely considered an uphill presidential battle in this key state.

Kennedy's Democratic forces will use front-run campaigners to defend a position regarded by some as a precarious edge and by others as a comfortable margin.

TIDE AGAINST NIXON

Sources close to Nixon said last week the tide was running against him in New York.

The New York Daily News poll, conducted through secret balloting, indicates Kennedy has mathematics, physics and engineering.

I asked if this were not a form of beating "swords into plough shares." The answer was that one, brine-incrusted old sea dog looked as though he was taking a beating, but the remainder were such sharp, eager beavers that about all the instructor had to do was make assignments, monitor their superb reports and grade their quiz papers. Most of them will readily find teaching jobs of some sort in colleges and engineering schools.

BUT FEW OF THEM will be qualified for, or be assigned to teaching the advanced courses or given top places in the campus research programs. They will find themselves confronted by the problem of standard academic credentials for tenure and promotion to the full professorships. Such factors are, from institutional experience, closely associated with ability to do the long range job.

The teacher shortage at the college and university level accordingly is not one of available applicants. As a university dean recently remarked: "There will always be people who want to teach in a college or university, but the problem is to find people who are qualified by adequate advanced study and experience within the fields they hope to occupy a college or university chair."

College reputation and accreditation rest upon these vital factors. Thus expanding colleges are forced more and more upon short term appointments of teaching personnel with "sub-standard" qualifications. Turnover of faculty personnel is higher today than it was in previous eras of static enrollments and static faculty lists.
